Farmer Held Up Near Neapolis

On Wednesday afternoon last, a Three Hills farmer, Mr. W. McKenzie was held up and robbed at Neapolis.

McKenzie was on his way home from Calgary when he picked up two young men who wanted a ride to Didsbury. On reaching here, they decided to go to Three Hills and he offered to take them along. Near Neapolis School they held him up at the point of a gun and took what money he had, about $12.00. They then tied him up with baling-wire, left him in the school-house and drove off with his car.

In about an hour, he was able to break the wire and free himself and at once telephoned P.C. Dobbin of the A.P.P.

McKenzie's car was later found abandoned near Crossfield and it is thought the hold-up had likely returned to Calgary.

The police are investigating but up to going to press, the culprits have not yet been apprehended.

Laying Sidewalks With Tar-Sands

Mr. Theo. Draper of the Mc Murray Asphalt and Oil Company, had a gang of men laying sidewalks this week. Sidewalk has been laid for one block west from the Bank of Montreal and approaching the Schools.

The material being used is tar-sand from the large deposits at Fort McMurray, Northern Alberta. The tar-sand is heated and mixed with sand and gravel and laid about two inches thick on a base of gravel or cinders.

According to Mr. Draper, this process is proving very successful and a considerable amount of this material has been used in the Banff and Jasper Parks and around the Government buildings at Edmonton.

The laying of the sidewalk here in Didsbury is somewhat of an experiment as far as the town is concerned and if it is successful, no doubt, more will be laid in the future.

More Automobile Accidents Here

Two more auto accidents occurred near here during the last week. On Wednesday, a car from Red Deer with a party of five, who were going to the Stampede, collided with a car from Moose Jaw about one mile south of town. A young lady in the Red Deer car was badly cut about the face but the rest merely got a bad shaking-up. Both cars were badly damaged and hauled into town for repairs.

On Saturday afternoon, another collision occurred four miles north of town, when a Vancouver car crashed into a car from Elnora. Both cars were put out commission but none of the occupants were seriously hurt.

Community Picnic Is Appreciated

The following letter has been received by the Committee

Didsbury, Alberta,
July 3rd, 1930.

Dear Sirs,

I was at your picnic on July 1st and had a very nice time and I wish to thank you one and all.

For the ice cream and lemonade, I think the men who served us were very patient. They must have gone home very tired. I will close. Wishing you all success in your business.

RUBY TUGGLE.

WEDDINGS

A quiet wedding took place at the parsonage of the North End United Church, Calgary on Thursday last, when Mr. Floyd Ahlgrim was united in marriage with Miss Alice Richardson who lives west of Carstairs.

After the ceremony, the happy couple left for Kelowna, B.C., and other points for a short honeymoon.

On their return, they will reside east of Didsbury.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hillyard and Mr. and Mrs. Clarke motored to Sylvan Lake on Sunday.

LOCAL & GENERAL

Mr. and Mrs. Scrutton and Rita spent last Sunday at Sylvan Lake.

Mr. Chas. Cook is visiting his parents at Alask.

Mrs. Brusso and family are vacationing at Gull Lake this week.

Mr. Harold Clemens of Calgary, spent Sunday here with his parents.

Dr. White, Govt. Veterinary is busy this week inspecting cattle and hogs in this district.

Just the rig for your telephone desk. Scratch pads at the Pioneer Office, 2 for 5c.

Miss M. Fisher of Calgary visited with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Fisher on Sunday.

Mrs. C. Ratcliffe and family of Kimberley, B.C. are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Clemens.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Reiber and family left on Tuesday for Banff, where they will spend a week's vacation.

Messrs. Bob Eubank, R. L. Robson, Melvin Huget, Bill Cathro of Bowden and Alf. Allen of Calgary, spent the week-end at the Lowrie cottage at Sylvan Lake.

H. D. Booker has been awarded the contract for painting the Public School building and Bill McFarquhar received the contract to supply the paint.

Messrs. Tommy Johnson, Eddie Ford, Roland Hawkes and Eddie Shand left on Sunday for a motor trip to the coast. They will visit Portland, Seattle and Vancouver.

A big improvement has been made on the north road leading into town from the west. The town has purchased a strip of land and the municipality are improving the curve in the road.

C. E. Reiber returned on Sunday from his trip to the coast. He visited Vancouver, Victoria, Seattle and Chilliwack and reports having met a large number of former Didsbury people.

Kathleen Green, elocutionist of Calgary, will appear in the Westcott School, under the auspices of the W.I. on Monday evening, July 21st at 8:30. Admission 50c. and 25c. Refreshments served.

The "Go-Getters" of Melvin are putting on the first dance of the season, July 18th, in Mr. Leeson's barn, six miles west of town on blind line. Carstairs Joy-Boys will entertain you with good, snappy music. 28 2c

On Sunday last, Rev. T. J. S. Ferguson, B.A. of Vernon, B.C., preached the anniversary service at Westerdale to a well-filled church. Mr. Ferguson recalled many incidents of the early days in this district and urged the people to press forward in the great march of progress. On Monday evening, the Westerdale people again turned out in full force to hear the program of the Ferguson Four. They appear at the Didsbury Opera House on Saturday evening.

Didsbury Horses' Fine Showing at Calgary

One of the exhibits in the livestock section at the Calgary Exhibition which attracted its share of well-deserved attention during the week, was the trio of Kentucky five-gaited saddle-horses shown by W. J. Fulkerth of Didsbury. While animals of this breed are somewhat unusual as yet in the west, the Didsbury entries undoubtedly possessed the type and quality to have placed them at the top of their classes in much stronger competition.

Included in the string of saddlers were the five-year-old stallion, The Dare; the four-year-old mare, Miss Maypole and the two-year-old filly, Laura La-Plante, which stood first, second and third in their classes for five-gaited saddle horses. Miss Maypole also carried off a red ribbon when shown in harness.

The Fulkerth horses are perfectly trained to show the five gaits, the walk, stepping pace, trot, rack and canter, which are the commoner paces of the well-bred, well-mannered saddlers of the Bluegrass.

—Herald

W. J. Fulkerth's four-year-old mare, Peggy, took first prize in the open performance jump over four hurdles, against twenty-two competitors at the Calgary Fair on Wednesday last and the next day, was awarded second prize in the jump for horses 14 2 and under.

W. Reider's Welsh pony-stallion, Brae Don, won first prize in the pony class and Mr. J. V. Berscht's Welsh pony-mare won first prize both on the halter and under the saddle.

The Problem Of Markets

It may be poor consolation to the wheat producers of Western Canada, who are in a quandary over the problem of selling their product in the markets of the world at a price which will yield to them a reasonable profit over the cost of production, to learn that they are by no means the only producers of a commodity used throughout the world who find themselves in difficulty of a like kind. And because the producers of these primary commodities are experiencing difficulty in finding markets, the makers of secondary and manufactured articles are also feeling the pinch, and find themselves overstocked with goods which they cannot at the moment sell.

The situation which exists is not one that affects Canada alone, or any one commodity alone, but the whole world. It is a problem of over-production in the majority of cases. It affects not only the primary producers in all countries, and the manufacturers, but it reacts adversely upon every class of business and every individual. Because there is a glut of primary products the transportation companies are losing business, and in turn they are employing fewer men in their manifold departments. Merchants require less help because less goods are being sold, office staffs are reduced, and the resultant shortage of money and of buying power on the part of everybody has slowed up or put a temporary stop to building construction activities.

No country in the world is immune from this present condition. It is world wide, but, fortunately, Canada is less seriously affected than any other of the great trading countries of the world.

While Canada's problem is wheat, Brazil's is coffee. While other countries grow coffee, notably Java and Arabia, Brazil is the great source of supply. It has been steadily increasing production, as have other countries, growing more coffee than the world could consume. In order to prevent prices falling to a ruinous figure below actual cost, Brazilian Governments bought up the surplus and kept it off the market, to be released in years of a short crop. The result is Brazil now has sufficient coffee on hand to meet total world requirements for two years, with another big crop coming on. The financial strain has proven too great, and that country is now endeavoring to float a huge loan, $100,000,000 or more, at a high rate of interest, and in doing so has given a pledge it will buy no more coffee, and will liquidate its present enormous holdings within ten years.

Sugar is in much the same position as coffee. In 1926-27 world production of sugar was placed at 23,750,000 tons, or about 300,000 tons less than consumption. The following year production exceeded consumption slightly, but in 1928-29 production jumped to over 27,000,000 tons, or far in excess of world requirements, while this year's estimates indicate a still greater production.

Cotton, too, joins the procession. In the last five years the United States produced on the average 40% more cotton than the average for the preceding ten years. The average for the ten-year period ending 1925, was about 11,000,000 bales; in 1926, about 18,000,000 bales were produced. Texas, formerly a great cattle ranching state, is now the greatest cotton producer among the states. Oklahoma is also going in strongly for cotton, and both states are using machinery, as against the old hand picking system, with a result similar to the revolution in wheat production through the introduction of the combine. One Texas farmer harvested 1,700 bales of cotton with five laborers, whereas under the system in the old cotton growing states 100 workers would have been required to plant and cultivate and 200 more to pick the crop by hand. It is estimated that Texas alone could produce twice as much cotton as present world needs.

Rubber, copper, tin, zinc, silk, and other basic commodities are all in the same class, production outstripping consumption, the increase in the latter not nearly equalling the increase in the former, and in regard to some commodities, silver for example, actually declining.

Coupled with this situation was the huge withdrawal of money and credit into the speculative stock market during the past two years, ending in the crash of some months ago. The effect was that farmers were deprived of their usual credit facilities, and this reacted unfavorably upon their retail purchasing, which, in turn, reacted upon consumption, consumption on manufacturing, manufacturing on labor, and labor on consumption. All business slowed up.

In the case of Malay rubber, Cuba sugar, Brazil coffee, the idea prevalent was that control of distribution was the same as control of production. As one writer says, there could be no greater mistake. Production is controlled by the direction and energy of human activity aided or retarded by forces of nature. Prices are arrived at by the relationship between supply and demand. If demand is greater than supply prices rise. If supply is greater than demand they fall.

In Canada, the source of national prosperity, it is now admitted, lies in the wheat crops of the West. World wheat production is steadily, even rapidly, increasing. The biggest problem, therefore, confronting Canada today, is to find a profitable, permanent market for its wheat. To the solution of that problem every Government, the Wheat Pools, farmers' organizations, manufacturers, merchants, citizens generally, must bend their energies and to it devote their best, most constructive thought.

Reduce the Acid

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are over-stimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour. Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours. Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

WAS WIDELY KNOWN

The Late F. E. Trautman

Death took a colorful figure from the railway and newspaper worlds of Canada recently, when F. E. Trautman, for many years press representative for the Canadian Pacific Railway, western lines, and dean of western publicity men, succumbed to a short illness in Misericordia Hospital, Winnipeg. "F.E.", as he was familiarly known in hundreds of newspaper offices throughout Canada and the United States, was in his 67th year. He leaves a widow and one young daughter, June.

After a long and varied journalistic career in the eastern states, Chicago and Canada, in which he filled every position from one at the compositor's case to the editorial chair, Mr. Trautman joined the Canadian Pacific Railway in Winnipeg, in 1912, under Sir George Bury, who was then vice-president, and inaugurated the first railway press bureau here.

Under a deliberately gruff exterior, the veteran press representative carried a remarkable fellow feeling for the young newspapermen, and many contemporary figures of note in the fourth estate owe their start or their success to his advice and help. It is partly on this account that few Canadian journalists were so widely known and admired.

Mr. Trautman was married to Miss Kathryn M. Ross, who survives, and who was at the bedside during his last illness.

DO YOU VALUE YOUR HEALTH?

If your health is poor; if you are pale, nervous and easily tired; if you suffer from headaches and backaches; if your digestion is bad you may depend upon it that these symptoms come from an impoverished state of the blood. That unless this condition is remedied a complete breakdown may follow. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a perfect medicine for any one in this condition. They enrich and purify the blood and thus promote health and strength.

Mrs. G. M. Andrews, Halifax, N.S., writes:—"I always keep Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house. When I was a young, anaemic girl they completely restored my health. After marriage my health broke down and once more these pills brought me back to health. My friends all tell me how well I look and for this Dr. Williams' Pink Pills deserve all credit."

You can get these pills at all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Women Who Work

Modern Devices Have Not Altogether Eliminated Work In the Home

By some persons whose knowledge of housewives is limited those important members of society are supposed to have been relieved of the necessity of doing any physical work. Excessive feminine indulgence in amusements is assumed to be the sorry result.

Systematic inquiry shows a very different state of things. The bureau of home economics in the Federal Department of Agriculture reports that in country districts and in cities of less than 50,000 population women work in their homes considerably over forty-two hours a week, while the average among thousands of women questioned is fifty-one hours a week.

Plainly, vacuum cleaners, electric washing machines, telephones, canned goods, delivery service and all the rest of the time saving and labor-saving devices have not reduced the housewife to demoralizing idleness. She is not yet threatened with ennui. There is no great danger of her finding too much leisure on her hands. Worry over her mental and moral condition in her supposed state of freedom from toil is, to say the least, premature.—Chicago News.

Solved His Problem

A visitor from Aberdeen at a Liverpool hotel inquired about the board charges. The figures being rather high, Sandy exclaimed: "How much do you charge for garaging my car?" No charge whatever," he was told. "Well, then," decided Sandy, "I will sleep in my car tonight."

The Philippines are to have a chain of hotels.

More Remaining In Canada

Scientifically Trained Men Not Leaving In Such Large Numbers

A radical decrease in the number of scientifically trained men who find it necessary to leave Canada for employment was cited by Rev. Dr. H. J. Cody, chairman of the board of governors of the University of Toronto, in an address to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association there. Dr. Cody spoke of the work of the Technical Service Council, an organization founded in 1927. During the past year, 1,000 applications for trained men had been received, and 550 graduates had been placed in key positions in Canada. Since 1925 the percentage of the graduating class of Toronto University leaving the country had been reduced from 27 to 3 percent.

British Stock For Canada

If this Empire is to remain a British Empire and its practice and its institutions are to remain British, the British stock must be increased to keep pace with other stock which is flowing into the vacant spaces. So far as Canada is concerned there are two ways of doing this—by assimilation and by the injection of new British stock. Both processes should be worked simultaneously.

Island Falls Plant Now Supplying Electric Energy In the Northern Hinterland

Saskatchewan's first hydro-electric plant has commenced operations.

Three generating units at Island Falls are in use and power is being transmitted on a 58-mile pole line to the mining town of Flin Flon, on the Saskatchewan-Manitoba border.

Inauguration of the hydro project in the northern hinterland marks an important milestone in Saskatchewan mining development.

When the Whitney interests took up their option on the important Flin Flon claims on December 1, 1927, development was started that has already involved expenditure of close to $25,000,000. Included in this was the building of a border mining town which now has a population of nearly 3,000, and the building of a 90-mile railroad across the muskeg from The Pas to the Flin Flon site.

The Hudson Bay Mining and Smelting Company, Ltd., sponsored by Jack Hammell and the Whitney interests, cast about for sufficient power to operate an electric smelter at Flin Flon, Manitoba power sites were passed up in favor of the Churchill site at Island Falls in Saskatchewan, a distance of 58 miles from the townsite of Flin Flon.

Winter roads were cut through the forest from Flin Flon and in 40 and 50 below weather an almost continuous train of caterpillar tractors tore through the bush to deliver thousands of tons of cement and supplies to the Island Falls site.

Traditional methods of forest freighting were thrown into the discard and history was made that winter. The speed of the operations alone rivalled the mammoth proportions of the entire undertaking.

There are now electric lights at Flin Flon, one of the most up-to-date towns in the northwest, just as there have been electric lights in the modern settlement of Island Falls for some months past.

The Island Falls and Flin Flon power and mining projects have led the way for history-making development in northern Saskatchewan and Manitoba and other undertakings have closely followed that commenced by the Whitney people.

The Sherritt-Gordon mines at Cold Lake is one of the other big projects, while in Saskatchewan the Consolidated Smelters, Nipissing Mines, Churchill Minerals and Dominion Explorers have done a great deal of exploration and development work.

Other mine undertakings are expected along the Churchill, where ore bodies of rich values have been found close to power sites. While 86,000 horsepower has been harnessed at Island Falls there is in addition to that nearly 500,000 horsepower available in easy access of important discoveries in Saskatchewan mining regions withies made by prospectors.

Inauguration of the Island Falls transmission line has come several weeks earlier than was expected when the Hudson Bay mine firm held its annual meeting some months ago.

May Not Be Superstition

Writing in the British Medical Journal, Dr. Rose Jordan recalls the good old army adage that tattooed men are protected against infectious tropical diseases and raises the question of whether this is merely superstition "or does the impregnation of the skin by these dyes really afford any protection."

"And for this I've been paying my sub to the Society for Protection of Animals and Plants for seventeen years."—Gutierrez, Madrid.

What Canadians Eat

In Many Respects They Are Best Fed People In World

Figures given in the monthly publication of the Royal Bank of Canada, as to food consumption in this country indicates that in many respects Canadians are the best fed people in the world.

Some of the statistics, especially those dealing with dairy products, show an increase in consumption that is little short of amazing.

Take butter for example.

The figures quoted prove that Canadians in 1929 consumed 29 pounds per capita, an increase from 23½ pounds in 1920.

It takes 450 million gallons of milk to satisfy the Canadian demand for this product, the consumption amounting to a pint a day for every man, woman and child in the country.

Since 1920 the requirements of the home market for whole milk, cream, butter, cheese, and ice cream have resulted in increased consumption of 143 million pounds of butter fat.

We eat twice as many eggs now as we did in 1920 and our consumption of poultry has increased from seven to ten pounds per capita.

Similarly we are disposing of a much larger quantity of pork, the consumption of which has increased from 560 million pounds to nearly 800 million pounds, which figures out as an increase from 65 to 81½ pounds per capita.

On the other hand beef consumption shows only a small increase and there has been a falling-off in the quantity of mutton and lamb consumed.

Lumber In Transit

Checking Up Moisture Content Of Pacific Coast Lumber When It Reaches Eastern Canada

An interesting study being carried out at present by the Forest Products Laboratories of Canada, Department of Interior, is the behaviour of lumber in transit from the Pacific Coast. The Vancouver laboratory has arranged to place in carloads of lumber consigned to Montreal and Ottawa a number of boards, the moisture content of which was determined in Vancouver. Through co-operation with eastern consignees, the Ottawa and Montreal laboratories have been checking up these moisture contents on arrival in the east, to determine the amount of moisture absorbed in transit.

What We Call Diplomacy

The admiral, who was conducting an examination for the navy, was addressing one of the candidates:

"Who, in your opinion, are the three greatest sailors in British history," he said.

"I'm sorry, sir, I didn't catch your name when I entered the room," replied the student, "but the other two are Nelson and Drake."

"Oh, why was I ever brought up to be a writer?" sighed the cub to his fellow reporters.

"You weren't!" came the unexpected reply of the city editor.

A practical everyday dress in printed rayon crepe with simple bodice rather fitted through the waist with the attached circular flaring skirt showing extremely flat hipline. Seaming of waist and skirt marks the normal waistline.

It achieves a modern note through the cascading jabot frill that starts at right shoulder and terminates at left hip, which is plain crepe in the lightest tone of the print. The collarless neckline is finished with applied band of plain crepe.

Style No. 3267 is designed in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It is easily made, for the circular skirt is in two sections and seamed at sides and stitched to the two-piece bodice that has been closed at sides and shoulders.

Crepe satin is effective with the jabot frill and neck band made of the dull side of the crepe.

Black silk crepe with eggshell silk crepe, bottle green faille crepe, dahlia purple canton crepe, and feather-weight woolen in yellow-beige and brown, with plain brown woolen are chic combinations.

European Countries Showing Strong Disposition To Curtail The Importation Of Wheat

Advocate World-Wide Crop News Service

Would Aid Marketing By Circulating Expert Knowledge

Creation of a world-wide commercial intelligence service to be used in collecting expert crop and market information on all lines of agricultural products was discussed by E. M. H. Lloyd, assistant secretary of the Empire Marketing Board, and Dr. J. H. Grisdale, deputy minister of agriculture, and Canadian representative on the executive council of the imperial agricultural bureau, a sub-committee of the board.

Mr. Lloyd, who is touring Canada in the board's interests, admitted that the creation of such a corps and the dissemination of such timely and expert knowledge has been a matter of consideration by the Empire Board for some time. It might be discussed, he said, at the forthcoming economic conference. Expert agriculturists, schooled in the collection of marketing and crop conditions, would be maintained in practically all countries of the world if the plan were set in operation. These reports would be collected in one central depot and from there distributed all over the empire.

Such a scheme, Mr. Lloyd believed, would be of great assistance to the Canadian wheat pool and other co-operative marketing organizations.

Mr. Lloyd, who is touring Canada to acquaint himself with Dominion products and conditions, believed that many industries would be aided in finding markets within the empire through the board.

"There is an ever-increasing public opinion in Great Britain to use empire products," he said. Through the efforts of the marketing board, empire products that were practically unknown or at least were limited in their use in Great Britain, have been brought to the attention of the people, with attendant increases in sales.

Remember Your Home Town

Pay Old Friends a Visit As Often As Possible

Many railroads today are advertising excursion rates over the weekend so that city dwellers may go back to the old home town for a brief vacation. Immersion in business, coupled with a crowded calendar of engagements, should not deter a man from closing his desk Saturday noon that he may board a train or an automobile bound for the familiar scenes and the loyal friends back home. Character and success are often developed by the friendly atmosphere of the village. To forget the home town is to rob life of one of its major satisfactions.

A Non-Skid Tie

The non-skid necktie has made its appearance in France. Sheets and threads of rubber are put together to form either the four-in-hand or bow tie, and these are vividly colored to suit the wearer's taste. It is said that the ties will last longer because they will not fray or wear out, but it is not said whether or not they will stretch out of shape.

The Farmer's Sun says: Whether as a reaction to the efforts of the wheat pools and the United States farm board to "stabilize" prices, or whether it is purely to encourage domestic agriculture, a strong disposition on the part of importing countries to lessen their dependence on outside sources for their future supplies of wheat is now quite evident. The new tariff on wheat recently put into effect in Germany amounts to approximately seventy-eight cents a bushel. There is also a substantial increase in the duty on wheat flour, while that on oats is increased fifty per cent. and on barley one hundred per cent. The inference is that Germany, a large importer, proposes to buy less abroad in future. Russia, authentic reports indicate, is pursuing its program of agricultural socialization, which involves the exploitation of twenty million hectares of collectively operated farms and the use of one hundred and twenty thousand tractors, at such a terrific rate of speed, that although the original plan called for the breaking up of half a million privately owned farms, already between a million and a million and a quarter of them have been dissolved, and it has been found expedient to call a halt. So strong has been the movement towards collective farming, it is reported, that it has assumed the aspects of an avalanche, the peasants falling over themselves in their desire to participate. At the present rate of progress it is estimated that the end of the five-year period will see fifty per cent. of Russian agriculture operated on a collective basis, instead of twenty per cent., as had been planned. Italy has embarked upon a well defined long time program designed to increase the domestic food production, while Brazil, having failed in her attempts to "stabilize" the coffee market by government restriction, is attempting to interest planters in the growing of wheat. These are ominous signs which Canadian agriculture cannot afford to ignore.

Tests Not Complimentary

Showed Large Proportion Of Collegiate Students Are Poor Spellers

Tests of spelling made recently at two of Toronto's collegiate institutes were not complimentary to the students, nor were they satisfactory to the public. At one institution, out of 131 who were examined, only 68 were pronounced good spellers, less than half that number were fair, while 38 were either poor or bad. At the other, out of 157 who were examined, 62 were found to be good spellers, but an exactly equal number were either poor or bad, and only about one-fifth of the total were fair. Spelling is one of the rudiments of education and the poor showing made in these tests explains the disappointment and even irritation often felt by employers of young people. The authorities should inquire why so large a proportion of students are deficient in a study so important as spelling.

STOP, LOOK, LISTEN!

In an English illustrated paper there appeared a picture of a roadside ambulance station with First Aid workers in charge, and business-like nurses in uniform. It was at a corner of one of the busiest roads in the world—the much travelled road to Epsom on Derby Day. Sensing the need, the British health authorities prepared to meet it in the usually effective British manner.

One would wish that every Albertan would take note of the following figures and determine that they will be reduced, and that he and his will have a hand in helping so to do.

In 1929 71 people in this province met their death in auto accidents, and in the previous year Alberta was the third of all the provinces in the death rate from autos. Last year she was in the fifth place. Other accidents in the city of Edmonton took toll of human life as follows: Five fatal accidents in 1926, seven in 1927, eight in 1928 and ten in 1929. Going up, in no uncertain measure, every year, until we shall be having the unenviable record of the United States, where the rate was 23 per 100,000 of the population.

Schools and homes and churches must all unite in the efforts to make life of supreme value. Children must be protected from their own impetuosity, and taught to take time to consider the grave issues—death itself or a maimed body during life. One of the interesting feature exhibits at the Red Cross health booths at the Alberta fairs this year will be a model of a level crossing accident where the race was not to the swift, and the supreme price was paid. It is well worthy of the attention of every visitor to the fairs, and is entitled, "Stop, Look and Listen!"

Gold Diggers Are Glorified in Song

In "Gold Diggers of Broadway," Warner Bros.' hundred per cent natural color, singing, talking, dancing Vitaphone comedy-special in technicolor which comes to the Didsbury Opera House on July 24th, a huge musical revue which besides the all-star cast, includes a dazzling beauty-chorus of a hundred, is presented as part of the colorful background of the story.

"Gold Diggers of Broadway" depicts a different side of Broadway's colorful show world, bringing to the screen the private life of New York's chorus girls—the inside stuff on the "gimme girls," as it were.

Manitoba Jubilee Impressions

Celebrations In July To Mark the Sixtieth Anniversary Of Manitoba's Admission Into Confederation (By Old Timer)

Men who have lived in Manitoba since the early days, and especially those who were born here, love to recall the various fights or squabbles in which the Province was involved during the first half-century of its corporate existence. Most of the questions raised in the stormy days found their origin in the well-known constitutional fog which seems to have always surrounded the relationship of a Province, particularly a new one, to the Federal authority. The learned Solons who drew up the British North America Act, as well as the more or less wise ones who carved it up before it became law, failed to take into account many of the big problems that have developed since. For that reason they were unable to lay down in plain words the points of distinction between the respective jurisdictions. Many and varied were the legal and political battles that ensued. The present differences are so mild that by comparison it might almost be said that negotiations are now conducted in silence.

When the Canadian Confederation was established in 1867, four diverse units of British territory in the north-eastern section of the continent agreed to come together and forget, as far as possible, their differences. Since they all retained their provincial status, however, with the necessary, and also some unnecessary, governmental machinery in each case, there was still plenty of room for argument. If the Fathers of Confederation (who rightly received so many tributes during the Jubilee celebration three years ago), could not adjust the situation between the Federal jurisdiction and that of the four units which had been established for generations, how could they be expected to foresee and care for problems relating to a new territory subsequently taken into the union? It simply wasn't done, for the reason that it couldn't be done.

The Diamond Jubilee celebrations through the Province on July 15 next, are intended chiefly to mark the sixtieth anniversary of the admission of Manitoba into Confederation, and there is no doubt they will in every case be worthy of the occasion. When the event actually took place in 1870, there was much shaking of heads, particularly in the East, about the wisdom of the step. A review of the litigation and other trouble that has followed would seem to justify some of the doubts, and it is a matter for congratulation now that these have been dispelled. Manitoba was the first of the new territories to be absorbed, and her problems were without precedent, insofar as her relations with the "rest of the family" were concerned. It is little wonder, then, that when trouble did arise there was plenty of it. This Province was variously regarded as the "martyr," the "stormy petrel" or the "ugly duckling," according to the particular viewpoint of the politician who was expressing an opinion on the subject. Whatever the occasion, Manitoba was prominently in the limelight. Whether it was in the matter of railway competition, enlargement and adjustment of boundaries, educational autonomy, insufficient subsidies, or control of certain phases of commercial affairs, there was at no time any doubt about Manitoba's position. If there was a fight, she was supposed to be in it, like the mythical Irishman. What is more, she not only desired to be in it, but she had her wish gratified to the full.

From the standpoint of material advancement, the most important battle was that in connection with the boundaries. When the Province was instituted in 1870, it was a tiny affair, and was facetiously likened to a "postage-stamp." After a little more than ten years of discussions the Government headed by Sir John Macdonald at Ottawa, arranged to have the boundaries greatly extended. Indeed, under the proposed scheme a large section of what is now Western Ontario, including the town of Rat Portage (Kenora), would have come under the jurisdiction of Manitoba. But the Ontario Government, under the leadership of Hon. Oliver Mowat, saw a fine chance to raise a commotion, and it was duly raised. When the smoke and haze of legal action had cleared, it was found that the Mowat Government had won out, and Manitoba's eastern boundary was fixed in its present location. There was no Mowat to interfere with the westward extension, so that the boundary was pushed out about 130 miles without difficulty. Finally, in 1912, a large and important section in the north was added, giving the Province a long stretch of seaboard on Hudson Bay, including two possible ports, Nelson and Churchill. The telling about this boundary fight is simple enough, but a large volume would be required to record the history in detail. The same is true of the other disputes, some of which made or unmade political reputations in various parts of the country. The sequel has been that Manitoba has come to symbolize the protection of Western rights and Western interests. She has played and is still playing an important part in the affairs of Canada.

Food For Babies

Food Question Is a Serious One In the Hot Days Of Summer

Hot summer weather is very trying on babies and the food question is a serious one every mother must solve correctly if her infant is to avoid ailments common in this period. Breast feeding is obviously best for baby, but it happens in so many cases that this is impractical. Rather than experiment with all sorts of foods it is wise to use one that is known for its value as an infant food. Eagle Brand Condensed Milk has been used continuously since 1857 and is highly recommended by leading physicians as a safe, pure, easily digested food for bottle-fed babies. It is simply pure milk and pure granulated sugar. Feedings are easily made up according to directions on the can. Eagle Brand is especially satisfactory in difficult feeding cases. Frequently it agrees perfectly with babies who cannot assimilate any other food. Mothers who would appreciate a very helpful booklet on the care and feeding of baby may obtain a copy of "Baby's Welfare" from the Borden Co., Limited, Montreal, free, if they mention this paper when writing.

Had Successful Year

Interesting Report Of British and Foreign Bible Society

In the report of the recent annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society held in Queen's Hall, London, England, there are a number of items that stand out prominently.

According to this report the society is now selling more than double the number of copies of Scripture in the languages of Britain than it sold ten years ago. A total of 1,872,000 was reached, almost equally divided between the mother countries and the other parts of the British Commonwealth.

While British statesmanship is taxed to the utmost to find a solution to Indian problems so brought to the front by the self-sacrificing genius of Mahatma Gandhi, the Bible Society added two more translations of the Scriptures to the over 120 already to its credit, and circulated in these dialects over 1,000,000 copies of Scripture.

China stands out as the country that has had the most marvellous increase in the distribution of Scripture. Although money was scarce, banditry on the increase, famine widespread, and taxation raised to an unprecedented level, 6,800,000 volumes of Scripture were printed for the Chinese, and no less than 5,306,000 were placed in the hands of the people, an increase of 1,354,000 over the circulation of the previous year.

Increased circulation of Scriptures is also reported from Africa where eight new translations were added to almost 200 already in existence. Palestine and Egypt have good showings for the year. And Europe, the home of our present civilization, reports a substantial increase in spite of the fact that the Russian door remains closed to the entrance of the Word of God.

Is Easily Mastered

The art of swimming is so agreeable and so easily mastered and the places where it is taught by competent teachers are now so numerous in our cities that even urbanites ought not to grow to maturity without being able to do what any poor fish can. Country youth generally finds a "swimmin' ole" and teaches itself.

The owner of a popular brand of car was having trouble in starting his engine.

After watching for ten minutes the man wrestle with the starting handle a little boy asked his father:

"How far will it go after he has finished winding it?"

Motor Fuel In Western Canada

Unlimited Quantities Can Be Commercially Produced In Northern Alberta

Gasoline in almost unlimited quantities can be commercially produced from oil sands in Northern Alberta, according to Dr. E. H. Boomer, of the University of Alberta, addressing the National Research Council. A new method which yields light oils suitable for the production of gasoline is credited to Dr. Boomer and Dr. A. K. Clark, also of the University of Alberta; and a semi-commercial plant, now in operation, shows, it is said, that Western Canada, at least, will shortly be independent in the production of motor fuel.

Chinese Children Starve

More than 200,000 children have died of famine in Northern China since January, according to Commissioner MacKenzie, of the Salvation Army. The Commissioner, who recently returned to Australia from China, said that 80,000 Chinese wives and daughters had been sold for $2 or $3 each to provide food for the remainder of their families.

The female mosquito is not only the one that stings but the one that sings.

The ordinary person's lungs contain 76,000,000 air cells.

"You on a vacation?" questioned Grandma with a smile.

"Not so's you'd notice it," replied Jim, taking what Grandma called "the visitor's chair," and throwing his hat onto the table. "I've been to Eastboro on business, and as George K. Doesn't expect me back till after lunch, I thought I'd pass the time of day with you. How's everything?"

You mean Charmian?" queried Grandma astutely.

"You'd have make a first rate detective, Grandma," was Jim's retort; and the old lady laughed.

"Well," she responded, "the last I saw of 'everything' was when she left for school. The doctor offered to take her in his car, but she said she wanted to walk so I suspected she had something on her mind."

"What?" asked Jim, and added with caution, "Something to do with school?"

"My idea was," answered the old lady, "that it was something to do with you, Jim."

"Me!"

"Yes," said Grandma. "Maybe I'm all wrong, sonny, but I thought she was feeling sort of hurt that you never told her, when you were riding yesterday, that you and your mother were going to California."

"I meant to," explained Jim, "but my mind got taken up with other things. Then, too, I didn't know that Uncle George was going to blab so soon. Not that I care, because Mother's going to tell Lizzie Baker this morning and ask her to do some sewing for her before we start. Besides, I knew it didn't make much difference to Charmian whether I was in California or Timbuctoo."

"I donno why you should say that, Jimmy. You haven't got a better friend in town than my girl is—unless it's me."

Jim's young eyes looked suddenly weary, and his mouth grim.

"It's something more than friendship that I want from Charmian, Grandma. No use pretending, is it—to you anyway? And it's plain to see that she's giving the thing I want to some one else. Why should she care whether I go West or not?"

Grandma looked out of the window for a moment, but seeing nothing to comment upon, turned back to Jim.

"I presume you mean she's falling in love with Doctor Carter?"

Jim nodded.

"I donno as I like you saying that,

Jim," said the old lady. "Suppose now, he didn't fall in love with her." "Great grief! how could he help it—living right here in the same house with her this way?"

"He knows a sight o' girls back in the city," said Grandma wisely. "There's pictures of two of 'em on his bureau, and another in his watch. I saw it the day my clock stopped and I asked him to set it for me. Maybe he isn't in love with Charmian at all."

"He is," asserted Jim. "D'you ever watch 'em walk down the street together? He goes sort of sideways, Grandma, so he can look at her all the time."

Grandma reached out to lay a tender hand on Jim's strong, tanned fist. "I think you've got a chance, sonny," she said.

"I'd like to agree with you," he responded, "but I don't. He's got something I haven't got, and I'm not so dumb that I don't see it. Perhaps if I'd gone to college—rubbed off some of the Wickfield—er—provincialism" (even in this bitter moment the eyes that met Grandma's showed a glint of humor), "I could have acquired it, even if I was born in this little one-horse burg. But it's too late now. I see where I get off; but—there's something I'd like Charmian to understand, and, somehow, I can't make myself tell her. Every time I begin, the words stick in my throat. That's why I stopped in this morning when I knew she wouldn't be here. I thought if I told you, Grandma, maybe you'd explain to her after I get away. It's about—Mother."

"Yes?" urged the old lady as he paused.

"It's this way," Jim continued. "A good many times Charmian, and other people, too, have sort of implied that I don't dare breathe without first asking my mother if it's agreeable to her. You get me?"

Grandma nodded. "And they're right, to a certain extent," he confessed honestly. "But it's not easy, Grandma, always thinking of some one else before yourself, even if she's your own mother. There've been times. . . ."

He hesitated again, and Grandma said: "I know sonny. I understand. You've been a splendid son, Jim, but—"

"I know what you're going to say," he interrupted. "And it's no use, even even if I have got my own life to live. You see, Grandma, I was only a kid when my father died, but he asked me then—when he was going—to always look after Mother and be good to her. Somehow—I've never been able to forget."

"Well!" breathed Grandma. It was an exclamation of surprise. She sank back a little in her chair, regarding the young man's sober face with newborn understanding. Then she said: "And you promised, Jim?"

Jim nodded, and went on: "I've thought, since I got old enough to think it out, that perhaps he didn't mean me to take it so—so literally. Or he may not have realized how Mother would get to—well, depend upon me. He wouldn't have wanted me to make a promise that would spoil my life; and there've been times, Grandma, when I've felt as if it had. But don't you ever tell that—even to Charmian!" he added loyally. "He was a good man—my father."

"One of the best," responded Grandma. "One of the finest. I'm sure that he never meant you to take that promise the way you have. He was dying, Jim. He knew better than any one else knew, how your mother was going to miss him; and all he wanted was that you should help her over the hard sledding, not that you should bury yourself in the drifts for her sake. I'm an old woman, Jimmy. My time's not far away, and I know how folks feel about such things. You see, you've been obeying the letter of that promise, not its spirit, which your father meant you to obey."

"You believe that—honestly, Grandma?"

"Implicitly, son," said Grandma Davis.

Jim arose and patted her shoulder clumsily.

"You've helped me a lot," he said. "It would be a pity if I couldn't, with seventy-eight years behind me!" she answered, smiling up at him. "And don't worry about Charmian's misunderstanding you. I'll make her see."

"But not till we've gone, please," said Jim, reaching for his hat.

"That's for you to say, Jim. When are you going?"

"Within a fortnight. The doctor wants Mother to get away before cold weather. It'll be some change from Wickfield, Grandma!"

"I'll do you good. Maybe you'll meet some o' those movie vampires and fall before 'em."

Jim laughed. It was what Grandma wanted and was working for; but she added wistfully as he reached the door: "I'm going to miss you, Jimmy."

"And believe me, I'm going to miss you!" he responded warmly as he turned away.

CHAPTER XVIII.

The Bennetts had been gone a month. Their big house facing the common, which had been Sarah Bennett's pride for thirty years, was closed for the first time in its existence, the shining plate glass windows boarded over because, Jim told his mother, boys are the same from one generation to another, and a window-pane in an empty house is a source of irresistible temptation. Coming from the library one Saturday afternoon, Charmian paused to look up at its grim coldness, thinking that the house seemed hardly more forbidding now than in the days when the front shades were relentlessly pulled down to keep a ray of sun from penetrating the gloom within, and, possibly, fading the precious parlor carpet that had come from Boston when Sarah was a bride.

Only the iron dogs that guarded the big front door looked different. They seemed, thought the girl whimsically, forlorn, and patiently unhappy, with drifts of snow on their icy backs and between their ears, Jim, she remembered, had always kept them brushed clean of snow. They had been his playmates, and Charmian's. Towser and Mouser, they called them. How many miles, she wondered, had she and Jimmy ridden those iron steeds.

She was moving on but at a sudden impulse turned about, and going up the path to the patient canines, brushed off the light snow with a mittened hand. Then, glancing stealthily around and seeing no one, she reached out hastily and gave them each a pat. Jim had once told her in a burst of half-shamed confidence, that he patted them every morning when he went to work! Together they had laughed at the idea; but Charmian did not laugh now. Indeed, it seemed to her as she regained the sidewalk and glanced back at them, that the dogs looked more cheerful. She could, indeed, almost hear the thump of two hard, metallic tails!

"Going my way?"

Charmian turned, startled. The old doctor's shabby car had drawn up beside her, and he was leaning forward, an invitation in his kindly eyes.

"I was going home," she answered, "loaded with Sunday reading matter, you see; but if you don't be gone too long I'd adore a ride."

The old man beamed with pleasure.

"And I'd 'adore' your company, my dear. Reach in behind for my old cape, and wrap it 'round you. There are colds enough this time of year without adding to the number, and that coat of yours is none too warm a day like this."

"You're right," said the girl, dragging the worn old cape from the back seat, and snuggling into it. "I'm planning to go to Portland after Christmas and indulge in a new one, provided I can find a bargain. It's pretty cold on those early morning walks of mine, though John has been a trump about taking me in his car on the worst days."

BACKWARD BABIES

Thrive After Use Of Baby's Own Tablets

Derangements of the digestive organs are responsible for most of the ailments which afflict young children and keep them backward in development. Baby's Own Tablets regulate the stomach and bowels restoring them to normal action and this is all that is necessary to set the little sufferer safely on the road to health and happiness.

Baby's Own Tablets are specially designed to correct indigestion, constipation, colic; break up colds and simple fevers and to allay teething pains. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Engagement Gift

Every Blind Person In Her Home County Will Receive Radio Set

A man who recently became engaged to a Gloucestershire girl asked her to choose something as an engagement gift. The result of her choice is that every blind person in the county who is without a wireless set will be given one. The total cost will amount to about $50,000. The gift includes the cost of maintaining the sets. The donor does not desire the identity of his fiancée or himself to be revealed.

Wise and experienced mothers know when their children are troubled with worms and lose no time in applying Miller's Worm Powders, a most effective vermifuge. It is absolute in clearing the system of worms and restoring those healthy conditions without which there can be no comfort for the child, or hope of robust growth. It is a most trustworthy worm exterminator.

An Extraordinary Experience

Wife Of English Peer Talked To Him From Mid-Atlantic

An extraordinary experience befell Lord Brecknock at the Aldwych Theatre, London, England. He was sitting cosily in the stalls with a small party, when a theatre attendant approached him and said "Mid-Atlantic wants you." Scarcely understanding what it was all about, he suffered himself to be led to the telephone and spoke to Lady Brecknock, who had called him from the "Majestic" with as much ease and lack of trouble as if he was making a local call. It is a proof of the efficiency of the telephone service that he was located at the theatre in question within four minutes of the call having been put in at his house in London.

Recent biographies of Queen Mary have failed to mention one of her most striking characteristics. She has the unusual gift of what is called "the photographic eye." She never forgets the arrangement of a room, and after a lapse of years will remember that the position of some article of furniture has been changed or that something has been removed.

Little Helps For This Week

"Thou shalt give unto the Lord thy God according as the Lord thy God hath blessed thee."—Deut. xvi. 10.

For the best that thou canst be is the service asked of thee.

The Almighty, in His providence, does not ask of us uniform rents for our rights and lives, as earthly landlords sometimes do. He only asks for the rightful use of the talent entrusted to us. The taxes of Heaven are never per capita, but always pro rata. Not the form observance of each and all alike, but every heart's desire, every hand's readiest service. Not the number of acres you till, but the quality of your tilling determines the profit of the harvest in spiritual as well as material farming. This standard exacts no promises, but it accepts no apologies; for there is no occasion for apology when you have done all you can.—Jenkin Lloyd Jones.

Unless worms be expelled from the system, no child can be healthy. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator is an excellent medicine to destroy worms.

She (somewhat foggy on musical matters)—"Is Bach composing much now?"

He—"No, madam, he's decomposing."

Minard's for Falling Hair.

Leads In Export

"Canada exports more manufactured goods per head of population than any other country in the world," says the Farmer's Sun. "The figures are: 'Canada, $64.80; Great Britain, $55.80; Germany, $32.68; France, $30.58; and the United States $25.13.'"

Weak After Operation

"I was very weak after an operation. My nerves were so bad I would sit down and cry and my husband would not go out and leave me alone. Now my nerves are much better, thanks to a booklet that was left under the door. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound surely put me on my feet. I have taken eight bottles. My friends tell me I look fine. My sister has taken this medicine too."—Mrs. Annie Walton, 67 Stanley St., Kingston, Ontario.

The Navy League of Canada assists the widows and orphans of the men of the Mercantile Marine. It also supports the Sailors' Homes and Institutions in all the large Canadian ports from coast to coast and looks after the welfare of the seamen when ashore. In addition to this, the League trains young men and boys, helping to make better Canadian citizens of them.

It's the hope of giving what you haven't got that gives zest to life.

Alberta Government
Crop Report

The high temperature of the past few days has been most welcome in the northern and western parts of the Province; the moisture supply is abundant. Crops in this area have made excellent growth but continued cool weather in June has tended to retard progress toward maturity. The present warm and bright weather will correct this condition.

The central eastern area may be described as patchy. In some parts, the recovery has been remarkable, due to the frequent showers. At other points, less favored, recovery is only partial. On the whole, the crop outlook continues to show improvement.

Along the line of the Calgary-McLeod Railway there is promise of a normal crop. Eastward and farther south, crops have suffered from drought during the past fortnight. Rainfall at various points over this area, in the past few days, has brought a measure of relief and a more optimistic outlook. About twenty per cent of wheat is in head and the remainder in the shot blade.

Hail damage has occurred at several points in the Province but the areas involved are not large. Coarse grains are making favorable progress. Haying is general throughout the Province, the crop being slightly below average on account of the cold dry spring.
